ANGLO-FRENCH CONTENTION

Declare European Waters and Mediterranean a War Zone

PROTESTS OF THE U. S.

Objections Will be Made to Interference With American Commerce en Route to Neutral Ports.

Washington, March 20—The Anglo-French contention that the allies have the right to declare "Euroepan waters and the Mediterranean" a blockade zone may be accepted in principle by the United States.

But this Government will insist that the blockade be directed only against cargoes and vessels intended for German ports. Strenuous objections will be made to interference with American commerce en route to or from neutral ports.

That much already has been decided on by the President and his advisors. Following a series of conferences between Robert Lansing, Counsellor of the State Department; Rear Admiral Fisk, and Captains Oliver and Knapp, the latter three being experts on naval law, it has about been decided that under modern conditions a blockade may be declared for any area that the blockading nations have warships to police the zone claimed.

The United States, however, will suggest that the allies define exactly their radius of activity. This would save neutrals embarrassment as they would know that only within its limits would their vessels be in danger of being detained.

Meanwhile, American commerce has seriously suffered already. Since the announcement by England that the blockade was to be enforced, very few shipments of cotton have gone forward.

And most of the coast ships, drafted into service to carry goods across the ocean have now been shunted back to their regular runs. Officials refused to estimate the exact losses sustained, but they pointed out that the war risk insurance, which has been insuring overseas cargoes, is now doing very little business.

SHOT AT NIGHT ON LINKS.

Duel Suspected in the Wounding of Frederick S. Bain.

Savannah, Ga., March 02—Frederick Steelman Bain, formerly of Philadelphia, now connected wth George H. McFadden Bros., cotton dealers, is at Oglethorpe Sanatorium suffering from a serious wound, either self-inflicted or possibly the result of a midnight duel as suitor for the hand of Miss Edith Bryson, known as the "prettiest girl in the South."

The shooting took place on the links of the Savannah Golf Club, several miles from the city. There were no witnesses. George W. Campbell, a friend of Bain, who has followed him from Savannah, arrived on the scene soon after the shooting and rendered first aid.

Bain declares he was enticed to the club by an anonymous note and that the shooting was done by a stranger. Physicians who examined the wound are of the opinion that it might have been self-inflicted. There were powder marks on the young man's vest and other portions of his clothing and a revolver with one chamber empty was found in his possession. It is known that he was desperately in love with Miss Bryson and it is said she had recently discouraged him in favor of Henry Gilbert, since which time he had been very despondent.

Attorneys for F. Drew Caminetti son of the United States Commissioner of Immigration, and Maury I Diggs, former State architect, stated yesterday in San Francisco that they would appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision of the Federal Court of Appeals, which held them guilty of violation of the white slave law.

At a demonstration of several thousand natives of Shanghai Thursday a resolution was passed demanding war with Japan, and declaring it was better to die on the battlefield than become slaves of the Japanese settlement. The police unsuccessfully tried to prevent the meeting.

Dorothy Russell, daughter of Lillian Russell, was yesterday held for trial in New York under $2,000 bail on a charge of forging a prescription for morphine. Miss Russell cried throughout the proceedings. She was brought to court in her mother's automobile.

The British battleships Irresistible and Ocean and the French battleship Bouvet were blown up by floating mines while engaged with the remainder of the allied fleet in attacking the forts in the narrows of the Dardanelles Thursday. In spite of their heavy losses, sixteen vessels of the allies' fleet entered the narrows yesterday and kept up an all-day attack, the warships relieving each other in relays.

The British admiralty announces that the German cruiser Karlsruhe was sunk in the West Indies about the middle of last November.

Seven long trains filled with seriously injured Germans from Neuve Chapelle and Aubers have passed Liege, and fresh troops, most of whom are young men who have not yet been under fire, have passed Liege to reinforce the German front in North France.

During this pursuit the Australia used 6,000 tons of coal.

GERMANY WOULD SACRIFICE ALLY

Exerting Pressure Upon Austria to Yield to Italy

AGED EMPEROR FIRM

Von Bethmann-Hollweg Contemplates Trip to Vienna to Show Concessions Are Necessary.

Paris, March 20.—The Austrian government is resisting energetically pressure exerted by Germany. to induce her to make territorial concessions to Italy, according to a Geneva dispatch to the Petit Parisien. Count Andrassy, former Premier of Hungary, and several other statesmen representing the dual monarchy are reported to have gone to Berlin to discuss the problem with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and Foreign Minister von Jagow.

It is reported at Geneva that, if other negotiations fall, the German Chancellor contemplates a trip to Vienna, in the hope that he may convince Emperor Francis Joseph that it is necessary for Austria to consent to the sacrifices asked.

The Geneva Tribune says it is informed that Pan-Germanists in Austria are in violent conflict with Czech Transylvanian deputies, who are clamoring for a rupture with Germany and the conclusion of a separate peace.

Rome, March 20.—What purports to be an outline of Austria's attitude, with relation to the cession of territory to Italy is contained in a dispatch to the Tribuna, dated Vienna, but telegraphed from the frontier.

The statement is made that Austria, without reflecting upon Italian good faith, contends it is only natural that the dual monarchy, if she is ready to grant territorial compensation, should wish to insure Italian neutrality. For this reason, the dispatch says, Austria feels she could carry out her part of the proposed agreement only when an Italian pledge of neutrality is fulfilled, especially in view of the fact that the cession of the Province of Trent would imply a weakening of Austrian military resources with regard to Italy.

Commenting upon this report, the Tribuna says the conditions which Austria demands are absolutely inacceptable.

"The Austro-German point of view," the Tribuna says, "is wrong, because they think Italy is asking compensation for neutrality. The problem is totally different. Austria provoked the war through aggression against Serbia, partly against repeated Italian warnings, and partly without Italy's knowledge. This action was entirely contrary to mutual Italy-Austrian pledges, and conflicted with the fundamental interests of Italy. Thus the European equilibrium was upset, and radical changes in the map of Europe are inevitable.

"Italy sacrificed her national aspirations by adhering to the triple alliance for the sake of preserving that European equilibrium. Since Austria shattered it, Italy can no longer postpone the realization of those aspirations."

The affection of the throat from which Emperor William of Germany suffered two months ago has attacked him again It is said that the ailment has taken a severe form. German doctors frequently have advised an operation, and it is said that the Swiss specialist, Dr. Vermod, of Lausanne, considers it essential that there should be an immediate operation, which would involve at least two months of complete inactivity.

FORCING THE DARDANELLES

Report That Vice Admiral Carden Has Been Killed or Wounded

DENIAL OF ADMIRALTY

Forts in Straits Heavily Damaged by Allied Fleet—Russian Black Sea Fleet off Bosphorus.

London, March 20—Vice Admiral Carden, commanding the allied fleet at the Dardanelles, either was killed or badly wounded in the engagement inside the strait on Thursday, according to a report that gained much credence here today.

Unofficial denials came from the admiralty. It was stated that aside from the loss of the French battleship Bouvet and the British battleships Irresistible and Ocean, no serious casualties had been suffered by the allied fleet.

Dispatches to the admiralty early today indicated that forts Kilid Bahr and Chanak, guarding the Dardanelles narrows, were heavily damaged before the Anglo-French fleet withdrew.

It is reported from Athens that part of the fleet has re-entered the strait and that the shelling of the narrows forts has been resumed.

The renewal of the bombardment, Athens cables, followed an important conference aboard the French flagship Suffren, at which Rear Admiral de Robeck, who succeeded Vice Admiral Carden in command, met the captain of the allied warships.

From Petrograd comes an unofficial report that the Russian Black Sea fleet has appeared off the Bosphorus. The arrival of the enemy squadron has created a panic in Constantinople, Petrograd cables.

MRS. BRAGER'S SUIT UP.

She Claims Over $300,000 of Jos. Friedenwald Estate

Baltimore, March 20—The suit of Mrs. Blema Brager, wife of Albert A. Brager, to recover a balance alleged to be due her of her share of the $4,000,000 estate of her father, the late Joseph Friedenwald, president of the Crown Corn and Seal Company, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Duffy and a jury, in the Superior Court. Altogether Mrs. Brager received $120,000 as her share of the estate, but she alleges that she was induced to do by misrepresentations made her by her brothers and sisters. Her share, it is alleged, was valued at more than $300,000.

As outlined in the bill of complaint and in the opening statement of Attorney Marbury, the case for Mrs. Brager is as follows: Her father died December 24, 1910, more than five years after his wife, and leaving 12 children and three grandchildren, children of a deceased daughter. The latest will of Mr. Friedenwald was dated December 12, 1910. It only left Mrs. Brager $40,000. When Mrs. Brager was about to notify her brothers and sisters that she would contest the will they began negotiations with her to buy her share of the estate.

Through the false representation, it is alleged, that her father had made an earlier and valid will disinheriting her and that this will would become operative if the will of 1910 was set aside. Mrs. Brager was induced to sell her share of the estate for $80,000, or $40,000 more than the will gave her. The earlier will was made April 24, 1903.

A caveat to the 1910 will was filed by Moses Stern Friedenwald and it was set aside. Then the will of 1903 was set aside without contest. Subsequently Mrs. Brager began negotiations for a larger share of the estate and was given $40,000 more, a total of $120,000. This is not half what she is entitled to, she alleges.

MRS. ANGLE LIBERATED

Accused Falls in Swoon When Verdict is Announced

Bridgeport, Conn., March 20—Mrs. Helen M. Angle yesterday afternoon was acquitted of the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of her admirer, Waldo R. Ballou, at Stamford on the night of June 23, 1914.

When the jury announced its verdict Mrs. Angle fell in a dead faint in the arms of the father while 400 spectators most of whom were women went wild with joy the women crying and laughing by turns.

Restored to consciousness and half carried to the street, Mrs. Angle at once became the center of another hysterical crowd which pressed about her until dispersed by the police and deputies.

The freed woman then entered an automobile with her father and was driven to the railroad station, where she boarded a train for Stamford.

Another crowd was at the station in Stamford but Mrs. Angle was hurried to the home of her father where she was greeted by friends who had been notified of the verdict by telephone.

Prosecutor Homer S. Cummings said:

"I am heartily glad the trial is over. It has been a severe ordeal for all. The case was fully and fairly tried and the verdict should be accepted without question."

The jury was out one hour and forty five minutes.

RUSSIAN PLUNGE WEAKENS KAISER

Incites Desertions Among Nationalities Who Are Not German

ENEMY IS IN PRUSSIA

Smouldering Hate of People Tyrannized Over by German Barons is in Flames at Present.

Petrograd, March 20—The Russians have won a complete success by a sudden rapid advance into the extreme northern strip of German territory and are reported to have taken Memel, an important Baltic port, 91 miles northeast of Koenigsburg. The German force guarding the frontier was surprised and lost severely before it fled across the sand flats to the Baltic fortress.

During the heavy fighting in the Pilicza region the Germans lost more than 25,000 men.

The Russians are advancing steadily upon East Prussia. One column is now fighting on German territory near Memel; the second is fighting in the neighborhood of Tauroggen, close to the German frontier, and one march from Tilsit, Russian successes in this region are particularly gratifying, inasmuch as they are fighting in the enemy's country, even though within their own political frontiers.

Nearly 200 miles due south of Memel the Russian lines have advanced within half a march of the German frontier. Apparently the Germans here are quite broken beyond the power to organize an adequate defense. They have more difficulty in surrendering now than ever before, as the exasperation of the troops, especially those drawn from nationalities over whom the Baltic Germans have tyrannized for centuries are disinclined to give quarters. This fact also counts toward the explanation of increasing cases of open desertion by German troops, which is quite a new phenomena in this war.

Occupation by the Russians of Archawa, a Turkish port on the Black Sea, near the Russian border, through which the Turks have been receiving supplies and reinforcements, has caused an important movement in the Caucasian campaign. The Russian victory, together with the continual pounding in the valley of the Tchoruk River, has caused the Turks to beat a disorderly retreat toward Erzerum. The road between Archawa and Choppa, to the eastward, was defended strongly, and the Turks were defeated only after a series of stubborn battles. The Russian advance created a panic throughout the Tchoruk Valley, and the inhabitants fled to the mountains, abandoning the villages.

WAR ON SIDEBOARDS.

Meyersdale, Pa., March 10.—Members of lodges that permit sideboards in their meeting rooms will not be accorded a Christian burial by members of the Meyersdale Ministerial Association. A resolution to that effect has been passed.

The resolution in part reads:

"Because of the pure and exalted position of the church and the saving purposes of her calling the members of the Meyersdale Ministerial Association believe it to be inconsistent for them to be officially associated in the solemn services of the burial of the dead of any lodge that maintains a liquor sideboard in its rooms."

ROAD BRADDOCK TOOK

Colonial Dames Will Mark Route From Alexandria to Fort Duquesne.

Plans for marking the historic route taken by Geenral Braddock on his march from Alexandria to Ft. Duquesne, in his campaign against the French and the Indians, were completed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Alexandria committee of the Colonial Dames of Virginia which met at the residence of Mrs. George Uhler. The route from Alexandria to Winchester is to be marked by the Virginia colonial dames and the first marker will be placed at the interesection of the Mt. Vernon Avenue and the Braddock road, in the suburbs of Braddock Heights, one mile west of the present boundery of the city.

This marker, as well as the one to be erected in Winchester, denoting the beginning and end of the route in Virginia, will be constructed of one of the old cannon which were formerly placed at the street corners of Alexandria. These guns were rescued by the Mt. Vernon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, under the authority of the City Council and were recently given by the chapter to be used as markers of the Braddock trail.

The one outside of Alexandria will be mounted on a stone base constructed of cobble stone, which tradition says, were used by the Hessian prisoners in laying the streets of Alexandria at the end of the Revolutionary war.

When President Hayes came to the White House he invited Mr. Andrews to make his home in Washington. Mr. Andrew's home, near Scott Circle, was built at this time and has been the family residence ever since

Mr. Andrews was the first instructer of the Corcoran School of Art about 35 years ago. The school was at Seventeenth St., and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, in the building now occupied by the Court of Claims. It was moved to the new building of the Corcoran Gallery of Art in 1897. At the time of the founding of Garfield Hospital Mr. Andrews arranged an exhibition of the finest art works in America, which were displayed in the Capitol. The proceeds of this exhibition formed the beginning of the fund with which the hospital was built. He resigned as principal of the school about ten years ago.

Mr. Andrews painted several of the White House pictures, among them the portrait of Martha Washington. A portrait of Dolly Madison, painted by him, was in the White House for a number of years.

Mr. Andrews was a member of the Cosmos and Metropolitan Clubs. He was a classical teacher and linguist of distinction.

He is survived by his wife, who was Marietta Minnigerode; a son, Eliphalet F. Andrews, Jr., and a daughter, Mary Lord Andrews.

Mr. Andrews was a familiar figure in Alexandria ,which city he often visited. His widow spent her early years in this city, she being a daughter of the late Rev. Charles Minnegerode. TOhe family resided on Princes treet, near Pitt, for several years. He had a summer home near the Episcopal Theological Seminary.

One of Interest to Our Readers.

Good news bear repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of an Alexandrian man is confirmed after several years.

J. T. Langley, 513 Queen St., Alexandria, says: "I had a bad back and I think the trouble was caused by a strain. I could not stoop and when I got up in the morning, I could hardly move. I noticed sediment in the kidney secretions. The many good reports I heard of Doan Kidney pill led me to get a box at Leadbeater & Son's Drug Store. They fixed me up in fine shape. During the past few years snice Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney complaint. I have had no trouble. I confirm the praise I have previously given this remedy."

Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Langley had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

INDEPENDENCE IN JOURNALISM.

"Newspaperdom," a periodical devoted to the interest of newspaper publishing and advertising in a recent issue said:

"Not so very long ago an advertising manager of one of the most prominent newspapers in New England showed, from his books, how his paper had lost more than $60,000 worth of the best kind of advertising merely because the editor had refused to omit an item of news. The advertiser's car had struck and slightly injured an old lady and the advertiser was anxious that his wife, who was in very poor health, should not know of the accident. The editor refused to omit the item, and the advertiser withdrew his advertising. Before he had restored it the paper had lost $60,000, as stated.

"The publisher of another newspaper refused to modify some news matter as requested by an advertiser and lost, at once, a contract for $40,000 worth of advertising."

The above will bring to mind many reminiscences in the history of newspapers. In catering to patrons of all political and ecclesiastical predilections, as well as representatives of all countries, the square-dealing editor often finds himself up against serious propositions. The item which was not omitted, referred to above, was of no general importance, but the principal involved was vital, as had the editor followed the wishes of the advertiser a bad precedent would have been established.

There is scarcely an accident, sensation or scandal in which some subscriber to or advertiser in a newspaper is not interested, and the news would be kept out of print, if possible. But an editor cannot work under a censor. While one or two persons might urge him to omit an item the great bulk of his subscribers would expect to find it in the paper.

The late George Davis, editor of the New York Times, who was the first to exhume the procedures of William M. Tweed and his gang over forty years ago, had caused the story to be written up in full. On the day preceding its appearance a delegation was sent from the "Boss" to Davis to urge him to omit the article. They averred that they were supporters of the paper and were directly concerned in sending patronage to the Times. Finding Davis determined to print what he regarded as news, the delegation suggested that there was remuneration for the editor if he complied with their request. Davis was immune to their temptations, and he was finally offered one million dollars to omit the story. He refused the bait, and the article appeared next morning. Tweed, it will be remembered, was sent to the penitentiary and his gang scattered toward different points of the compass.

GERMAN AIR CASTLES.

The old story of the German who drew a map of the world seems to possess more truth than fiction. The Teuton made the Fatherland embrace about two thirds of his map while he designated the United States as a small island.

A picture of Europe completely reorganized with Germany and her allies dominating everything and levying upon their fallen rivals a tribute of from 120 to 150 millions of marks, is drawn by Rudolph Martin, former minister of the interior of Germany, in a pamphlet entitled "The World War and Its End," that has just been issued.

The writer sees Germany firmly established along the present French coast, in a position to control both London and Paris, and possessed of an air fleet many thousands of machines and 20,000 airmen. He sees England forced to consent to the construction of a tunnel under the English channel, equipped with four railway tracks and an automobile roadway, at both ends of which the German forces are in control.

Russia he pictures as completely dismembered, its territory divided up among neighboring powers, its offers depleted to the point of bankruptcy, its menace to the German empire gone forever. In the process of dismemberment he predicts the organization of new states.

Sweden, the author believes, will receive Finland; Germany the Baltic provinces and Poland; Austria will take the entire south of Russia, including Kiev and Odessa; Turkey will receive the entire Caucasus, including the government of Saratow; Russia will have to retire both from the Baltic, the Black and the Caspian seas.

Serbia is to go to Austria-Hungary; Egypt to Turkey; a part of Arabia to Roumania, provided the latter allies itself sincerely with Germany, will be properly rewarded.

Not only does Alsace-Lorraine remain German, but Belfort is to jion it once more as a German possession. Belgium not only becomes German, along with the Congo, but is to pay an indemnity of 6 1-4 milliards of francs within a few years of the close of the war.

Regarding the disposition of the colonial possessions of the allies the writer stipulates that England and France must lose Egypt, India, Algiers, Tunis and Morocco as penalty for inducing their inhabitants to bear arms against Germany.

The Suez Canal the writer sees permanently in the hands of "our ally, Turkey."

The heavy indemnities proposed the writer frankly says are for the purpose of so weakening Germany's enemies that it will be years before they can even contemplate war against her again. They are supplemented by taxation and military system from present Belgium to the new Russian border that will strengthen Germany indefinitely.

Conservation of Conversation

The busy man regards his time as money. Yet each man who calls on him in person wastes it by remarks on politics, the weather, and other subjects having no bearing on the business in hand.

Not so with the caller by telephone. He goes to the heart of the matter at once, states his business, and "hangs up," giving the busy man a chance to attend to other matters.

Talking by telephone conserves conversation and saves time.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Organization Will Take Active Part in Election of Legislators.

Norfolk, Va., March 20.—The Anti-Saloon League of Virginia has completed its work and the delegates began to leave here early yesterday morning for their homes.

During the session of the league Major Daniel Morgan Smith, erstwhile counsel for the Model License League, said that he had changed front when his wife had pointed out to him that he was wrong. He declared that he fell when he undertook to defend the liquor business by quoting the Bible, and that any man who undertakes to do that not only gets into trouble, but he will find his position indefensible.

On Thursday afternoon there was a general discussion of legislation, the outlook and the impending legislative fight. Sentiment was unanimous that the time has come when the friends of prohibition in every part of the State must fall in line, register, pay roll taxes and be ready to vote for members of the House and Senate this summer.

That the impending campaign is the cause of considerable anxiety to the prohibition folks there is no doubt. They know that they have more than a majority of the voters, recalling the vote of last September. But there appears to be indifference on the part of the voters and to accept the vote of last year as final. Nothing is further from the real situation. The next Legislature, the speakers points out, will have to frame laws to put the prohibition regulation into effect. The next Legislature, in case the liquor men shall succeed in electing a majority of the members, could revoke and discard the vote on prohibition and make the State wet in every direction. It could repeal all the laws which prevent the sale of liquor in ther ural sections.

That the Anti-Saloon League will put every candidate for the Legislature on the rack and get an expression from him there is not the least doubt.

SUICIDE AGREEMENT

Shot His Life-Long Friend Rather Than Surrender Own Life on Demand

Cleveland, O., March 20—George D. Kent is dead because he tried to carry a partnership beyond the grave Lester W. Scheu, his partner in the cigar business and lifelong friend was to be arrainged in Police Court as Kent's slayer.

Scheu told police the story of a suicide pact that Kent tried to force him into carrying out late Thursday night at Kent's home.

In his bedroom Kent produced two bottles of chloroform, Scheu said, and drew a revolver.

"You drink one," Kent commanded, "and if it dosen't kill you, I'll shoot you with this. Then I'll kill myself."

"I refused," said Scheu "and then he threatened me. To deceive him I said I would take the poison and asked for a glass to drink it out of Then Kent laid the gun down on the bed and started for a glass. I seized the gun pressed it against his side and fired.

Scheu and Kent had pledged eternal friendship and agreed not to marry but Scheu married in February and Kent was jealous of his young bride.

Kent was twenty eight. Scheu is twenty four.

OFFICIALS ARRAIGNED

Charges Preferred Against Police Commissioners of Richmond.

Richmond, March 20—A summary of the statements made to the Vice Commission by Chief of Police Werner is to the effect that the chief was prevented by one or more of the Police Commissioners named from suppressing vice. He was not only hampered, the report declares, but members of the Police Board directly or indirectly prevented the officers of the force from raiding certain house outside of the segregated district believed, if not positively known to be disorderly.

He is said to have frequented cer Krengel he visited a notorious house in the segregated district sometime ago in the course of an investigation made at the instance of United States Government officials in enforcing the white slave law. In this house, the detective said, he found Police Commissioner Goode. The Police Commissioner, according to the report, became infuriated when Officer Krengel appeared.

"What in the hell are you doing here?" Commissioner Goode is said to have remanded. Detective Krengel replied that he was making an investigation for the government. He was ordered from the house by the commissioner, according to the report, and upon his refusal to leave the Police Commissioner threatened to attack him, and might have attacked him, it is implied, if some of the inmates of the house had not pushed or led the commssioner into another room and shut the door.

Commissioner McCarthy is characterized as a "rounder," and he is said to have frequented houses in that part of the city which until recently constituted a part of Jackson Ward.

Either by direct orders or the example of his conduct the commissioner is said to have given officers of the force to understand that he would consider raids upon certain houses as unfriendly acts.

Three members of the police force who seemed to taking a rather active part in investigating reports regarding disorderly establishments outside of the segregated district were, the Vice Commission's summary says reduced in rank.

According to the testimony Offily visited houses of questionable character of the underworld in his automobile upon more than one occasion, and he is declared to have said that a certain establishment old Jackson Ward should not be raided.

Commissioner Weil is said also to have caused the abandonment of two cases against barkeepers who were believed to have violated the law. One was said to have sold whiskey to a minor. The other was said to have sold liquor on Sunday.

There is nothing in the report to indicate that the Vice Commission has a word of evidence against Mayor Ainslie, nor that any charges of dereliction or anything else can be made against Commissioner Boykin or Bradley.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

With final rehearsals being held and every preparation for the scenic effects, seating, and other arrangements being made the plays this year promise to equal the success of those last year, and nothing better can be hoped than this. The first is in the form of a musical program, called, "A Musical Hodgepodge," and the second is a roaring comedy, "The Preserving of a Smith." The actors who so successfully played "Everystudent," and "The Princess," at this time last year are all in new parts and the whole entertainment is expected to come through with a bang.

Only four days off before this second annual appearance of the famous Alexandria High School players. The actual date is March 24 and 25, Thursday and Friday nights, at 8:15 in the Westminster Building, the hall made famous by the first appearance of the players last year. Tickets can now be had from high school pupils. A number will soon be placed on sale at several durg stores in this city, where seats can be reserved.

"The Preserving of a Smith," will make quite a hit with the large audience which is expected to attend. It is the story of a Smith who gets aboard Noah's Ark in some way and is thus preserved, this explaining the reason for so many Smiths in this world. The lines of Admiral Noah, and his sons and their wives, together with those of the loafers and citizens who are left out of the ark because of their wickedness, will come through with "bells on."

Miss Hilda Schneider will play by request "When you and I were young Maggie."

Every Alexandrian should not miss the opportunity to see these two plays. They are not asked to come chiefly for the reason of giving the High School a lift, but because the plays are worth it. Those who attended them last year can vouchsafe to his. So those who come to see the the entertainment will be getting good enjoyment while at the same time helping along their own school.

Madame Ganz, of Washington, gave the two French classes a most interesting talk yesterday afternoon at two o'clock in the Third Year room on "General Joffre," commander of the French forces. She spoke first in French and then gave the talk again in English. One of the features was the singing of "La Marseillaise," by the Third and Fourth years. Chocolate and sandwiches were served after Madame Ganz had concluded her lecture.

The first A. H. S. team played its first game yesterday at the Baseball Park, with the strong St. Agnes team of Washington, as its opponent. The game was well played throughout and ended in a 10-4 victory for the local team after a good game. The two features of the game were the three-bagger of Poss and the drive of Wenzel in the seventh which netted two runs. Haynes started for the High School and pitched sixth innings, when Nalls was put in. The game was called at the ending of the seventh.

The A. H. S. will play Western High School, of Washington, Wednesday afternoon at the Park.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess", says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good.

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.
